INDEX TO VOL. CVIII

The titles of articles are printed in italics

ADU

ADULTERY and pre-nuptial promiscuity, contrast in the Basque attitude towards, 499

Æneid, interpretation of the, often a difficult task for the scholar, 507

African Administration, Principles of Indirect Rule in, 753–759

African Animals, Some, 527–532

African Labourer, The, in 1929, 62–73

Agricultural industry, difficulties of largely based on lack of standard and endemic over-production, 332

Agriculture the largest, and most depressed, of our industries, 317

Almsgiving, indiscriminate, no longer accounted a virtue, 525

American tourists, some reasons why they do not visit or stay in Britain, 210

Amery (Right Hon. L. S.), Eddies in the Flowing Tide, 137–150; The Letters of Nausicaa, 541–551

Anglo-Saxon countries, intelligentsia usually treated with tolerant contempt in, 516

Aphorism, The Ancient Art of the, 667–680

Arable farmer, live-stock necessary for consumption of low-price and low-quality products of, 330

Army in India, need for keeping it away from politics, 161

Atheism in Russia confined to the Communist Party, 465

Austria now a German state with negligible foreign elements, 579

BALDWIN (Stanley), The Importance of, 681–689

Basque language, 'one of the fourteen languages Latin did not destroy,' 496

Basques, The Problem of the, 493–503

BUT

Beasts of the Indian forest, some varieties and descriptions of, 389 et seq.

Bell (Sir Hugh), Great Britain's Interest in Free Trade, 600–610

Bennett (Sir Ernest), The Labour Government and its Prospects, 553–564

Benson (W.), The African Labourer in 1929, 62–73

Bicknell (Rev. Dr. E. J.), The Ideal of the Church of England, 639–649

Blackett (Sir Basil), The British Empire as an Economic Family, 36–47, 177–187

Blind-Spots in English Civilisation: (1) Railway Stations and Poster Advertising, 657–666; (2) Placards and Public Notices, Lettering, Postage Stamps, 777–786

Bowker (G. H.), A Plea for the Private Member's Bill, 477–483

Bradby (G. F.), Emily Brontë, 533–540

British Agriculture and Rationalisation, 323–333

British and American economic empires, apocalyptic outpourings of an American writer on the rivalry of, 180

British Empire, The, as an Economic Family, 36–47, 177–187

British farmer, the, and world wheat, 214–225

British not a romantic people, 316

British Sudan, the, a unique experiment in colonisation, 292

British System of Government, What is Wrong with the?, 623–630

Bromley By-Election, The, 449–456

Budget, the, serious effect produced by the debates upon, 8

Bureaucracy as potent an enemy to democracy as plutocracy, 396

Butler (R. A.), World Wheat and the British Farmer: A Reply, 214–225

CAN

CANADIAN Election, The, 334–344
Catholic Schools, The Present Position of, 631–638
Central Europe, A Policy for, 468–476
Channel Tunnel, The, 204–213
Chapin (Christina), The Cripple: A Social Problem, 650–656
Cheap food and raw materials, need of having supplies of to our markets manifest, 319
Cheapness, Of, 611–622. (1) What it is, 611–613; (2) What causes it, 613–617; (3) Where the pinch is felt, 617–619; (4) The real cause of the mischief, and remedies, 619–622
Church of England, The Ideal of the, 639–649
Clark (James B. M.), The Canadian Election, 334–344
Classics, the pure artistic merits of the, 510
Clemenceau, 106–115
Coloured and European labour, competition between becoming world-wide, 403
Continental systems of government, comparison of with the British system, 623 et seq.
Countryside, depression in the, Government 'determined to discover some palliative or solution of,' 558
Craddock (Sir Reginald), The Simon Report and After, 160–168
Cricket professionals, 'selection of made in too haphazard and ignorant a manner' by some counties, 93
Cricket, What is Wrong with?, 92–99
Cripple, The: A Social Problem, 650–656
Czechoslovakia 'a geographical and political deformity,' 584

DARLINGTON (W. A.), Oberammergau, 83–91
Disarmament a collective effort, 34
Dobbs (Sir Henry), Mosul Oil and the Pipe-Line, 281–291
Doctors and teachers, need for their conversion to eugenics, 524
Dominion status for India, silence of Simon Commission in regard to, 162
Douie (C. O. G.), Some Literature of the Great War, 116–136

ECONOMIC co-operation in the British Empire, distinguished pioneers of, 39
Economists and politicians, country at the mercy of, 9
Eddies in the Flowing Tide, 137–150
Education in India, 48 et seq.
Education of rich and powerful 'a sorry chapter in human history,' 251 et seq.
Egyptian Riddle, The, 426–438
Ellison (Lieut.-Gen. Sir Gerald), The Machinery of Government, 741–752
Emigration, decrease in, a factor contributing to increase in unemployment, 6
Emily Brontë, 533–540
England, Georges Clemenceau on, 113–114
Englishman, average, essentially a practical person, 561
English-speaking white peoples, value of the film and broadcasting on the racial and cultural affiliations of, 178
Eugenical Reform: (1) The Plutocracy, 243–254; (2) The Democracy, 396–406; (3) The Intelligentsia, 516–526
Eugenics, prospects of not hopeless, 526
Eugénie (the Empress), her fortitude, and adventurous journey from France to England, after the Battle of Sedan, 376 et seq.; her concern for, and death of, the Prince Imperial, 385
European countries, purchasing power of, vital to economic prosperity of Britain, 206
European, need for augmentation of his intrinsic efficiency, 40
European States, M. Briand's memorandum on a federation of, 170

FARMERS, ready-made successes the strength and curse of, 325
Fauna and flora, remarkable, of East Africa, 527 et seq.
Feeble-minded and mental defectives, suicidal policy of financing the survival of, 398–399
Fisher (Right Hon. H. A. L.), Clemenceau, 106–115
Fleet Street, The Revolution in, 15–24

FOR
Foreigner, A, Looks at the British Sudan, 292–309
Foreigners, days when they were assumed by English people to be inferior folk now over, 657
Fowler (J. H.), The Ancient Art of the Aphorism, 667–680
Freedom only a means of expressing all that is noble and beautiful in life, 570
Free Trade ' dead as an intellectual conviction,' 146 ; Great Britain's interest in, 600 et seq. ; documents in favour of by merchants, etc., 600–603, 607
French Revolution, The, and the Russian, 457–467
French view, a, of the London Conference, 25–35

GALLOP (Rodney A.), The Problem of the Basques, 493–503
George (Mr. Lloyd) and the Daily Chronicle, 16
Germany in the Melting-Pot, 364–375
Gilbert (Sir John), The Present Position of Catholic Schools, 631–638
Gold standard, restoration of the, serious disadvantage of to British industry, 6
Government, The, and Our Sugar Colonies, 56–61
Governments, Delane, of The Times, and the fate of, 142
Graphopolis : A Utopia for Literature, 255–265
Great Britain's Interest in Free Trade, 600–610
Great War, Persia's difficulties during the, 485
Guérard (Prof. A.), Graphopolis : A Utopia for Literature, 255–265

HARDY (Thomas), The Poetry of, 266–280
Harris (Sir Charles), Of Cheapness, 611–622
Hayward (Sir Maurice), The Simon Report : The Congress Scheme and the Report, 355–363
Heredity and the House of Lords, 723–727
Hindus and Brahmins, conspiracy of, to end British rule in India, 167
Hindus deeply impressed by the life and message of Christ, 575
History and Mr. Wells, 407–416

JOU
Hobson (J. A.), The New Protectionists, 310–322
Hodgson (Stuart), The Bromley By-Election, 449–456
Hodža (Dr. Milan), A Policy for Central Europe, 468–476
Homer's epics, salving (the last phase), 548–551
Hopkinson (Austin), The Importance of Stanley Baldwin, 681–689
House of Lords a stronghold of the plutocracy, 243
Huxley (Julian S.), Land, Population, and General Smuts, 226–235 ; Some African Animals, 527–532 ; Principles of Indirect Rule in African Administration, 753–759

IDDESLEIGH (Right Hon. Earl of) Heredity and the House of Lords, 723–727
Imperial Economic Committee, the, terms of reference of, 43
Imperial Economic Conference, the, some suggestions for its consideration, 184 et seq.
India, a great nineteenth-century Englishman on freedom for, 565
India, complicated position of the Army under the proposed new Constitution for, 157
India and the World, 565–576
India, dream of first fitting her for freedom and setting her free fast coming true, 571
India, Education and Reforms in 48–55
India, situation in, need for an early settlement of controversies, 420
India : The Supreme Opportunity, 715–722
Indian Conference, The, 417–425
Indian Scene, The : (1) The Simon Report, 151–159 ; (2) The Report and After, 160–168
Inheritance, a plea for the abolition of, 249
Inverforth (Right Hon. Lord), ' Mosul Oil and the Pipe-Line,' 552
Iron and steel industry, some factors to account for its post-war decline in Great Britain and advance abroad, 191

JEBB (Richard), From Referendum to Free Hand, 690–702
Journalism, Victorian, and present day compared, 23

JOU

Journalist, the, a prominent, etc., factor in modern affairs, though not devoid of weaknesses and vices, 518

KEUN (Odette), A Foreigner Looks at the British Sudan, 292–309

LABOUR and Liberalism, need for improved relations between, 559
Labour Government, The, and its Prospects, 553–564
Labour policies, European, what they should aim at, 402
Lambeth, 1930, 439–448
Land, Population, and General Smuts, 226–235
Literature, a Utopia for, 255 et seq.
Literature, Some, of the Great War, 116–136
London Conference, After the—a French View, 25–35
Ludwig (Emil), The French Revolution and the Russian, 457–467
Luke (H. C.), Visitors from the East to the Plantagenet and Lancastrian Kings, 760–769
Lyautey (Pierre), After the London Conference—a French View, 25–35
Lymington (Viscount), British Agriculture and Rationalisation, 323–333
Lyon (Laurance), The Riddle of Russia, 728–749

McCALLUM (R. B.), History and Mr. Wells, 407–416
Machinery, The, of Government, 741–752
Madariaga (Prof. S. de), The United States of Europe, 169–176
Mahdi, the, and the Khalifa, 'two unmitigated monsters,' 294
Medical and health work and education in the Sudan, what England has done for, 300 et seq.
Mellor (A. R. I), The Egyptian Riddle, 426–438
Melting-Pot, The, of Central Europe, 577–590
Menken (Jules), Rationalisation and the Steel Industry 188–203
Meston (Right Hon Lord), The Indian Conference, 417–425
Morals and religion, Virgil's influence in, 509
Mosul Oil and the Pipe-Line, 281–291, 552

POL

Muir (Ramsay), What is Wrong with the British System of Government?, 623–630

NATIVE civilisation, necessity of providing areas for, 228
Native labour policy in Africa: East African proposals, 62–65; the Colonial Development Act, 65–66; Rhodes Memorial Lectures, 66–67; South Africa, Northern Rhodesia, Tanganyika, and the Sudan, 67–72
Nausicaa, The Letters of, 541–551
Naval budgets, increase of foreshadowed as a consequence of new German war-vessels, 29
Newman (Major E. W. Polson), The Melting-Pot of Central Europe, 577–590
Newspapers, merging of, National Union of Journalists and the, 17
Nicholas II. and Louis XVI., how their fates were foretold, 460–461
Northcliffe (Lord), his treatment of 'news' as a marketable commodity, 19

OBERAMMERGAU, 83–91
Odyssey, the, how it was written (a fantasy), 541–548
Olivier (Right Hon. Lord), The Government and Our Sugar Colonies, 56–61

PALESTINE, Policy in, 703–714
Palmer, (Julian), Turkish Politics: Persons and Parties, 591–599
Pan-Europe, how it can be made a reality, 474–475
Passion Play, the, at Oberammergau, pain inflicted by the 'Descent from the Cross' scene in, 89
Pax Britannica, the, necessity for securing the continuance of in India, 161
Persia, The Renascence of, 484–492
Plantagenet and Lancastrian Kings, Visitors from the East to the, 760–769
Plutocracy, its elusiveness and curious weaknesses, 244–245
Political freedom, sense of nationhood a paramount step to, 423

POL

Political levy clauses of the Trades Disputes, etc., Act, 1927, and General Strike, serious fall in trade union contributions to the Labour Party's funds resulting from, 555

Politician, the, 'a broken reed for any real reform to lean on,' 522

Population, problems of, only to be solved biologically, 231

Priesthood, some arguments for and against ordination of women to the, 236 et seq.

Private Member's Bill, A Plea for the, 477–483

Protectionists, The New, 310–322

Protestantism in its old forms 'in a bad way,' 643

Public works, policy of, 'superficially attractive' as a remedy for unemployment, 10

QUICK (Rev. Canon Oliver C.), Religion and the Modern World, 74–82

RAILWAY construction in Persia, physical and economic difficulites of, 491

Railway stations of Great Britain, some suggested improvements in, 658 et seq.

Ratcliffe (S. K.), The Revolution in Fleet Street, 15–24; India: The Supreme Opportunity, 715–722

Rationalisation and the Steel Industry, 188–203

Recreation, stalking one of the most ascetic forms of, 386

Reed (Sir Stanley), The Simon Report, 151–159

Referendum, From, to Free Hand, 690–702

Reforms in India, 48 et seq.

Religion and the Modern World, 74–82

Religion no longer assumed to be the supreme activity of the human soul, 76

Renaudot, Father of French Journalism, 770–776

Reparations, difficult to visualise coming generations of Germans paying huge sums in, 587

Riches 'slippery and elusive and directly demoralising,' 247

Ritual dancing, one of the curious survivals of the Basque Country, 502

STE

Roberts (Ursula), Women and Priesthood, 236–242

Rossetti (Christina), 787–798

Russia 'sooner or later will recover her position as a great European Power,' 588

Russia, The Riddle of, 728–740

Russia, what will follow the present régime in? 458

Russian and French Revolutions, contrasts between, 457 et seq.

SADLEIR (Michael), Blind-Spots in English Civilisation: (1) Railway Stations and Poster Advertising, 657–666; (2) Placards and Public Notices, Lettering, Postage Stamps, 777–786

Safeguarded industries, Mr. Snowden's vindictive attitude towards, 145

Schiller (Dr. F. C. S.), Eugenical Reform: (1) The Plutocracy, 243–254; (2) The Democracy, 396–406; (3) The Intelligentsia, 516–526

Scotland, delights and difficulties of stalking in, 392 et seq.

Sedan, After, 376–385

Senior (William), State-Barges, 100–105

Shakespeare's poetry and Thomas Hardy's compared, 269 et seq.

Sharp (Sir Henry), Education and Reforms in India, 48–55; Stalks of Sorts, 386–395

Shelley's Adonais, comparison of Emily Brontë's No Coward Soul is Mine with, 536

Sherrington (C. E. R.), The Channel Tunnel, 204–213

Simon Report, The: (1) A Non-official European View, 345–354; (2) The Congress Scheme and the Simon Report, 355–363

Slavs of Central Europe, radicalism not a progressive policy for, 470

Smuts (General) and land and population, 226–235

Soloveytchik (George), Germany in the Melting-Pot, 364–375

Stag-hunting in India, advice to stalkers, 388

Stalks of Sorts, 386–395

Stanley (Prof. Carleton), The Poetry of Thomas Hardy, 266–280

State-Barges, 100–105

Steel industry, rationalisation and the, 188–203

SIR

Steel-Maitland (Right Hon. Sir Arthur), Unemployment, 1–14
Submarines and the problem of trade routes, 30
Sudan, the British, a foreigner's views on, 292 et seq.
Sugar Colonies, British, serious plight of, 56 et seq.
Sunday newspapers, huge circulations of, 21–22
Sykes (Brig.-General Sir Percy), The Renascence of Persia, 484–492

TENNIS, the game it is derived from, 500
Test matches a menace to county cricket, 99
Trade, inter-Imperial, resolution of bankers and business men on, 144
Trades Disputes and Trade Union Act, 1927, 'a mean and ungenerous party measure,' 556
Turkey, political changes in, Persia influenced by, 488
Turkish Politics: Persons and Parties, 591–599

UNEMPLOYMENT, 1–14
Unemployment, a full analysis of the problem required, 3
Unionist Party, the, and duties on foreign foodstuffs, 138
United States of Europe, The, 169–176

VOU

VIRGIL'S Bimillenary, 504–515

WASHINGTON Conference, the French Memorandum of 1929 and the, 27
Waugh (Arthur), Christina Rossetti, 787–798
Wealth, inherited, social attitude towards, idiotic and iniquitous, 248
Weigall (G. J. V.), What is Wrong with Cricket?, 92–99
Wells (Mr. H. G.) as a propagandist, 407 et seq.
Westminster Group, what its aims are, 647
Wheat, the Swiss experiment of State trading in, some if its effects, 221–222
White (Freda), Policy in Palestine, 703–714
Whitton (Lieut.-Col. F. E.), After Sedan, 376–385
Willson (Sir Walter), The Simon Report: A Non-official View, 345–354
Women and Priesthood, 236–242
Worcester (Right Rev. Lord Bishop of), Lambeth, 1930, 439–448
World Wheat and the British Farmer: A Reply, 214–225
Wright (C. Hagberg), Renaudot, Father of French Journalism, 770–776

YOUNGHUSBAND (Sir Francis), India and the World, 565–576

PRINTED IN GREAT BRITAIN BY THE WHITEFRIARS PRESS, LTD., LONDON AND TONBRIDGE.